The cards are going fast and those desiring them should apply at once to Bureau of Immigration, Albuquerque, N. M. Please indicate the exact number you will use. Cerillos, N. M., June 8.—C. J. Boom, the man who escaped through an open window at Dr. Palmer's office on Tuesday, after having been caught by Santa Fe special officers and charged with stealing a large quantity of dynamite, is still at large.

The posse, which has been looking for him since the time of his escape, has found absolutely no clue or trail of the wounded man. It seems as he has actually faded away.

Chief Special Officer Ben Williamson returned to Albuquerque on Wednesday evening, and Special Officer J. E. Sinclair went back to Albuquerque today.

BRISBY OF CHANTICLEER ENTERTAINS

A noisy swarm of long-tongued women took it upon themselves to storm the lonely resident of Chanticleer Ranch last Friday, the occasion of the storming being his twenty fourth birthday. With wagging tongues and well filled baskets they arrived at the scene of action prepared for the hostilities of the day and how well the success of the attack was accomplished can only be told by those who heard the gabbling of the day and partook of the immense load of good things to eat which were piled on the table until it literally groaned under the weight upon it.

These noisy senoras left their sturdy senors at home to toil with hoe and plow under the sweltering sun of that sultry day and hied forth to let a drop of cheer fall on the heart of the sickly muchacho of their neighborhood, and it brought to his mind those happy days of childhood when merry neighbors in old Kentucky would throw toil and care to the winds and assembly for a day of pleasure at some hospitable home; Such was the pleasure of the day that when all had departed and the moon from a hazy sky proclaimed that it was night and silent Morpheus had touched the eyelids of the recipient of the honors of the day with sweet and soothing sleep he dreamed he was in a land of paradise where there was everything to eat and he was the biggest eater of that wonderland. Those who started Chanticleer's owner toward the Quarter century mark in the race of life and encouraged him in the struggle by wishing him many more such happy anniversaries were Mesdames Sweeny, Sherman, Fielder, Bryan, Morris, Ligon and Eblen, Misses Eveal Perser, Emma Eblen and Iris Morris and Mr. William Tecumseh Sherman.

BARTH RETURNS TO DUKE CITY

Isaac Barth, accompanied by Mrs. Barth, started out on a motortour last Sunday, taking a trip by easy stages to Estancia and return, and got back to Albuquerque Wednesday evening at about 7:30, after making 187 miles in twelve hours actual running time, and not being inconvenienced by a single breakdown.

The tour included stops at Tajique, Punta, Bronco, Mountainair and Estancia, and various other places out in that section.

"The country out in Estancia valley certainly looks fine," said Mr. Barth, in referring to his trip yesterday. The prospects for the farmers there were never better, and it does look as if they were going to have bumper crops in everything."

DISPOSED OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY

John W. Collier returned last night from Santa Fe where he had taken George Hayward, whom he arrested on the arrival of the southbound train Friday night. Hayward charged with having disposed of mortgaged property and pocketed the funds. On his return, Collier talked with Mrs. Hayward at Kennedy, who had stopped there, before proceeding to Las Vegas. She claimed that the horse cow, pig and goat, which her husband is supposed to have sold, were her personal property and were sold by her. Apparently Hayward had mortgaged all his property to the bank, and Renehan as attorney for the bank, claimed this property as a portion of that mortgaged.

Another charge against him under the city ordinance is that of fighting, he having beaten a citizen of the ancient city. Hayward's father was expected to arrive from Las Vegas last night or this morning. Hayward gave bond in the sum of one thousand dollars and was given his liberty in Santa Fe.

Had Plenty of Juarez Fight

Mrs. Martha Fleming who arrived from El Paso yesterday to make final proof on her husband's claim here, saw a great plenty of the Mexican war during the battle of Juarez. After having been warned off the streets by the officers, while sitting in the room, a shell exploded in the room. She said they didn't have to be told to stay in doors afterwards.

Congress May Adjourn Next Month

Washington, D. C., June 10.—According to Senator Smoot of Utah, congress will adjourn about July 20. "It is my opinion," he said, "that the vote on the reciprocity measure will come up in the senate about July 16, and that the congress will have cleaned up all urgent business and be ready to adjourn by July 20. The bill is practically the same and covers the same details as the one before the Canadian Parliament. The Root amendment may not pass."

Senator Root of Massachusetts differs from the Utah gentleman, claiming that the vote will be taken within three weeks or not before some time in August.

Senator Bacon of Georgia says that he is all at sea as regards adjournment, but he doesn't expect it before August 1.
